Jobfind is committed to protecting the privacy of information concerning yourself. This document explains the way we collect, use, store and handle your personal information.

Your personal information is protected by law, including the Privacy Act 1988 (Cth) (Privacy Act) and the Australian Privacy Principles (APPs). Personal information includes your name, date of birth, contact details, education and employment history, and details of your personal circumstances.

Wherever possible Jobfind will try to collect this personal information directly from you. With your consent Jobfind may also collect personal information from third parties such as your previous, current or future employer, and referees nominated by you.

The personal information you provide to Jobfind is collected on behalf of the Australian Government Department of Jobs and Small Business (the Department) in order to provide you with appropriate employment services and support, including:

- delivering employment services to you and to help you find a job;
- helping in evaluating and monitoring the programmes and services provided to you by the Department and its contracted providers, including jobactive and Work for the Dole;
- contacting you about your participation in jobactive and mutual obligation requirements
- helping to resolve complaints made by you or your Provider; and
- involving you in surveys conducted by the Department or on behalf of the Department.

If you do not provide some or all of your personal information, the Department and Jobfind cannot ensure that you are provided with the most suitable level of employment assistance.

Sensitive information including racial or ethnic background, affiliations or beliefs, criminal record, financial status, health or disability may be collected to assist in assessing the best ways to assist you. Sensitive information can only be collected and used by Jobfind if your consent has been obtained or if the collection is required by law. Generally Jobfind does not collect sensitive information from you; the exception being any information about you that you think will assist us in placing you in employment and servicing you in jobactive.

Your personal information (including sensitive information) may be passed on to and between the Department's contracted Providers, and to agencies involved in the administration of employment services and income support payments and services, including Centrelink, the Department of Human Services, the Department of Education and Training, the Department of Immigration and Border Protection, the Department of Social Services, the Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet and the Australian Taxation Office and their respective contracted providers where those providers are delivering services to you.

In addition, your personal information may also be shared with third parties, such as Activity Host Organisations and employers, in the delivery of employment services to you. Your personal information may also be used by the Department or given to other parties where you have agreed, or where it is otherwise permitted, including where it is required or authorised by or under an Australian law, such as social security law, a court or tribunal order, or where a duty of care exists.

For more information about the way in which your personal information is managed, including information about how you may access your personal information held by Jobfind and the Department and seek correction of such information, and how you can complain about a breach of the APPs and how such complaints will be dealt with, refer to the following Privacy Policies –

- Jobfind's Privacy Policy available from our offices
- Department's Privacy Policy is available from <https://www.employment.gov.au/privacy> or by requesting a copy from the Department via email at privacy@employment.gov.au.

Additional information about the Privacy Act can be obtained from the website: www.privacy.gov.au Complaints about acts or practices may be investigated by the Information Commissioner.

Service Guarantee for jobactive

This Service Guarantee for jobactive reflects the Australian Government's expectations of jobactive providers. It sets out the minimum level of service each job seeker can expect to receive, as well the requirements they need to meet while looking for employment.

The Australian Government provides a range of services to help people looking for work. The Government delivers jobactive through a national network of providers, and people who need assistance to find work can access a range of help that's based on their individual needs. The main objective of jobactive is to promote stronger workforce participation and help more job seekers move from welfare to work.

What you can expect from your jobactive provider

Your jobactive provider will:

- work with you to develop your Job Plan. This sets out the services you will receive and the minimum requirements you need to meet while you are on activity tested income support
- identify your strengths and any challenges you face to increase your job readiness
- refer you to suitable jobs
- match you to a suitable Work for the Dole placement (where appropriate)
- reassess your needs if your circumstances change
- help you with wage subsidies or relocation assistance (where appropriate)
- keep in contact with you and your employer once you have started a job
- provide the services that are set out in their Service Delivery Plan
- treat you fairly and with respect in a culturally sensitive way.

What is expected of you

There are some things you need to do, including:

- do everything you have agreed to do in your Job Plan
- accept any suitable job
- make every effort to get and keep a job
- do the required number of job searches in your Job Plan
- meet your annual activity requirements—such as taking part in Work for the Dole— as outlined in your Job Plan
- contact your jobactive provider as soon as possible if you are unable to attend an appointment or do an activity
- notify your jobactive provider of any changes in your circumstances.

If you fail to do any of the above it could affect your income support payments.

Your personal information is confidential

Your personal information is protected by law, including the Privacy Act 1988. Your jobactive provider will only tell employers things about you that relate to job opportunities or, with your permission, your employment with them.

Your jobactive provider may also share information with other government agencies if they need to, to make sure you are getting the right level of support. These agencies may contact your employer to check that the information they have is correct.

You can ask to get access to any information your jobactive provider holds about you, and have it corrected if needed.

Compliments, suggestions or complaints

Your views about the service you receive are important. The Department of Jobs and Small Business and your jobactive provider value any feedback you may have.

If you don't think you are receiving the right help and would like to make a complaint, please talk to your jobactive provider first. Your jobactive provider will offer a feedback process which is fair and will try to resolve your concerns.

If you feel you can't talk to your jobactive provider, or you are still not happy, you can contact the Department of Jobs and Small Business National Customer Service Line on 1800 805 260 (free call from land lines) or email nationalcustomerserviceline@jobs.gov.au.

If you have suggestions to improve the service that you are getting or would like to make a compliment about the help you have received, please let your jobactive provider know or call the National Customer Service Line.

If you have any concerns about your income support payments, you should contact the Department of Human Services. Contact details for the Department of Human Services can be found at www.humanservices.gov.au.

Minimum Wage Fact Sheet for Job Seekers

What is a minimum wage?

A minimum wage is the lowest wage you can be legally paid for your work. For people 21 years or older, the minimum wage will increase on 1 July 2021, from $19.84 to $20.33 per hour because that is the national 'minimum wage' for adults.

For most employees, their minimum wage is set out in a document called either an Award or an Enterprise Agreement. If there is no Award or Enterprise Agreement that applies to the work you do and if you are 21 years or older, you must be paid at least $20.33 per hour.

If you are employed as a casual, an extra amount called 'Casual Loading' will usually bring your minimum hourly wage up to $25.41 if you are 21 or older.

In some cases, you can legally be paid less than $20.33 per hour, for example if you are under the age of 21. But you would still need to get the casual loading if you are a casual.

If an Award or Enterprise Agreement applies to you then you have to be paid the amount it says in the document. Your employer should help you to get a copy of that Award or Agreement for example, give you the name of it so you can look it up on the internet yourself. Then you can see if you are being paid the right amount. Or, you can contact your jobactive provider or the Fair Work Ombudsman and ask them to look it up for you. The Fair Work Ombudsman's website (www.fairwork.gov.au) contains a range of useful information and online tools, including an online wage calculator.

The increase to the minimum wage will also apply to all award wages, with the award increase happening in three different stages. Most awards will increase from the first full pay period on or after 1 July 2021. The increase for the Retail Award will apply from the first full pay period on or after 1 September 2021. The remaining 21 awards will increase from the first full pay period on or after 1 November 2021.

Further details on these awards can be found at Annual Wage Review 2021 - Website news - Fair Work Ombudsman (www.fairwork.gov.au/about-us/news-and-media-releases/website-news/annual-wage-review-2021).

A quick way to check your minimum wage, including any extra loadings, is to use Fair Work Australia's Pay and Conditions Tool (<https://calculate.fairwork.gov.au>).

You can also look at the full list of pay guides to find the award that applies to you at www.fairwork.gov.au/pay/minimum-wages/pay-guides.

What is the current national minimum wage?

The national minimum wage for adults not covered by an award or agreement will be $772.60 per full time week or $20.33 per hour. Casuals get another 25% on top of that, which works out to be $25.41 per hour. Remember, some Awards and Enterprise Agreements have a higher amount than the national minimum wage.

If you are a junior employee (that is, you are under 21 years of age), a special national minimum wage will apply as the minimum amount you should be paid. If you are under an Award or Enterprise Agreement, they may have different rates, so check what you are entitled to. If you are doing an apprenticeship or traineeship, or if you have a disability, there are different special national minimum wage rates.

Minimum wages by age under the national minimum wage are set out in the table below. They generally change each year on 1 July – most of the time they go up each year. For example, the minimum hourly adult wage went up from $19.84 to $20.33 per hour in 2021-22. The Fair Work Commission decides the amounts each year. You can find more information on the www.fairwork.gov.au website.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT YOUR PAY AND CONDITIONS

FLEXIBILITY

After 12 months employment, you can make a written request for flexible working arrangements if you're 55 or over, a carer, have a disability, are experiencing violence from a family member (or are supporting a family or household member who is), or are the parent of, or have caring responsibilities for, a child of school age or younger. This includes employees returning from parental or adoption leave asking to work part-time to care for the child. Your employer must respond in writing within 21 days. They can only say no on reasonable business grounds.

You and your employer can also negotiate an individual flexibility arrangement. This would change how certain terms in your award or enterprise agreement apply to you. An individual flexibility arrangement must be a genuine choice – it can't be a condition of employment – and it must leave you better off overall. Find out more at:

www.fairwork.gov.au/flexibility

DID YOU KNOW?

You can create a free My account to save your workplace information in one place at:

www.fairwork.gov.au/register

You can find free online courses to help you start a new job or have difficult conversations at work, visit:

www.fairwork.gov.au/learning

The Record My Hours app makes it quick and easy to record the hours you work. It's free on the App Store and Google Play.

ENDING EMPLOYMENT

When your employment ends, your final pay should include all outstanding entitlements, such as wages and unused annual leave and long service leave.

You may be entitled to notice of termination, or pay instead of notice. If you're dismissed for serious misconduct, you're not entitled to notice. If you resign you may have to give your employer notice. To check if notice is required and what should be in your final pay visit:

www.fairwork.gov.au/ending-employment

If you think your dismissal was unfair or unlawful, you have 21 calendar days to lodge a claim with the Fair Work Commission. Rules and exceptions apply. Find out more at:

www.fairwork.gov.au/termination

PROTECTIONS AT WORK

All employees have protections at work. You can't be treated differently or worse because you have or exercise a workplace right, for example, the right to request flexible working arrangements, take leave or make a complaint or enquiry about your employment.

You have the right to join a union or choose not to, and to take part in lawful industrial activity or choose not to.

You also have protections when temporarily absent from work due to illness or injury, from discrimination, bullying and harassment, coercion, misrepresentation, sham contracting, and undue influence or pressure. Find out more at:

www.fairwork.gov.au/protections

AGREEMENT MAKING

Enterprise agreements are negotiated between an employer, their employees, and any employee representatives (e.g. a union). This process is called 'bargaining' and has to follow set rules. The Fair Work Commission checks and approves agreements. For information about making, varying, or terminating an enterprise agreement visit:

www.fwc.gov.au/agreements

TRANSFER OF BUSINESS

If a transfer of business occurs, your employment with your old employer ends. If you're employed by the new employer within three months to do the same (or similar) job, some of your entitlements might carry over to the new employer. This may happen if, for example, the business is sold or work is outsourced. Find out more at:

www.fairwork.gov.au/transfer-of-business

RIGHT OF ENTRY

Union officials with an entry permit can enter the workplace to talk to workers that they're entitled to represent, or to investigate suspected safety issues or breaches of workplace laws.

They must comply with certain requirements, such as notifying the employer, and can inspect or copy certain documents. Strict privacy rules apply to the permit holder, their organisation and your employer. Find out more at:

www.fwc.gov.au/entry-permits
